In today's litigious environment, enterprises are bombarded by mountains of data, shortened court appointed deadlines and skyrocketing e-discovery costs. Data volumes are doubling every 18 months and enterprises have never been more challenged. No matter where your organization is in its e-discovery readiness journey, this event can help.

In this workshop we will explore:

- How your organization can lay a broad foundation for e-discovery readiness that can grow with you.
- Concrete steps that allow you to proactively address records management and e-discovery readiness rather than taking a reactive approach.
- How the recent economic downturn will impact your e-discovery compliance and governance strategies going forward.
- What are the real risks and threats of e-discovery and how do you minimize those risks, while maximizing cost savings and auxiliary benefits, such as better records management?
- How building scalable enterprise information management and e-discovery capabilities can make your company more "litigation-ready" and allow you to evolve in a changing business and e-discovery environment.
- Additional e-discovery "best practices" other successful organizations are implementing to improve outcomes, avoid pitfalls and reduce costs.
- How your organization can achieve the balancing act of cutting costs, protecting the business, and preparing for the future.
